POST APPROVES CITY'S PLAN TO BUY CATHEDRAL

Joining hands with other ex-service organizations, Oakland Post, No. 3, of the American Legion last evening endorsed the plan of the local city council to purchase the Masonic Cathedral as a War Veterans Memorial building, a project which will be placed on the November ballot as the sole bond issue.

The post also pledged itself to work for the final success of the measure and committed itself to be appointed to help the campaign organization bring before the public the necessity for a headquarters for the ex-service men.

The meeting last evening was called for the special purpose of considering whether or not the Masonic Cathedral would be suitable headquarters for all the ex-service men of this city, regardless of what war they participated in or whether or not they were members of any organization.

NEEDS POINTED OUT

"There is a great need in this city for a war memorial building," declared Fred B. Melman, local attorney and commander of Post No. 3, in presenting the project. "Not only is a building needed to house the needs of the living ex-service men today, this Masonic Cathedral will do it. It is well equipped with everything that the service men require. It has spacious lounge rooms and a magnificent organ. There are recreation rooms and billiard rooms and it is conveniently located."

The need of the ex-service men for headquarters is a pressing one. We are cramped in little offices distributed about town and there is no place that we can call our own. We know that the people of Oakland are anxious in some manner to display their appreciation of the work accomplished by our boys overseas and this is the first constructive plan advanced.

TAX QUESTION MET

"Some people will say that $225,000 is a very small sum to spend on a war memorial, especially as San Francisco has recently spent $2,000,000. But we must not forget that the property owners of Oakland are already saturated with taxes and at this time it would not be reasonable to ask for a larger amount. Unless the service men get together on this project and demonstrate to the people of Oakland that we are in dire need of a home, it will be at least five years before our finances are in such a flourishing state as to warrant erecting us a larger building."

Commander Melman also presented to the meeting a letter from Ben O. Johnson, chairman of the Masonic Cathedral Association, who stated that no commission was being paid to any person for the sale of the building. Other evidence was also submitted to the effect that the building was worth more than the price of $225,000 asked by the Masonic order. He stated that the building could not be duplicated for less than $500,000.

Two Accused Girls Are One, Say Police

Margaret Miller, who is alleged to have stolen $300 in jewelry from the home of Gordon Hall, 28 Tanglewood road, Berkeley, and "Marian Smith," who took $20,000 from Mrs. Mark Gerstle, 2320 Washington street, San Francisco, are one and the same, according to the police of Berkeley. Descriptions sent to the San Francisco department are said to leave little doubt in the matter. The Miller girl disappeared with the Gerstle gems within two hours after she had been employed in the home, where the situation was given her own account of her neat appearance and manners.

Apparently undaunted by the action of the jury in Judge Quinn's court in finding him guilty of grand larceny, Harry Milton Clark, former clerk of the Hotel Whitecourt in Berkeley, today maintained his innocence of the charges, and indicated through his attorney, Henry Davis, he would seek probation.

Clark is scheduled to come to sentence and hearing on the application for probation on Friday before Judge Quinn.

The prisoner was taken into custody following his disappearance from the hotel in which he had worked out a few hours, at approximately the same time $1800 in valuables were stolen.

RESIDENTS WAR ON GARAGELETS

In accordance with the campaign of Grand avenue residents to drive garages, a communication was received yesterday afternoon by the park directors from Marston Campbell, protesting against the garagelets which are under a new apartment house on Grand avenue, near the lake.

The park board voted to tender the protest immediately to the city council, and back it up on the ground that the portable are eyesores.

The park directors also voted to trade a piece of their property opposite the Marston Miller house to the Realty Syndicate in exchange for a similar parcel of land within the Miller estate. By a peculiar twist of the road there a piece of Miller property was left on the wrong side of the road, while a piece of Syndicate property was left on the Miller side. It is planned to get the Marston Miller park all in one place.

Grand avenue is the site for the improvement of Fremont Plaza at Fourteenth avenue and East Twelfth street as soon as loan can be provided on the ground. The place will bloom with flowers soon.

QUAY WALL BASIN TO BE DREDGED

The sum of $6340 was appropriated today by the city council to dredge the Quay Wall Basin, situated between the foot of Clay and the foot of Washington street.

Commissioner Soderberg said that the steamer George Washington, drawing 27 feet, just reached bottom in docking some time ago. This is an 11,000-ton steamer.

The council also adopted a resolution authorizing the city engineer to prepare plans for the improvement of Fruitvale avenue between East Fourteenth street and the Foothill boulevard.

A communication by the mother of Alexander Ruth Golbransen, of 2550 Elmwood ave., complained that the child was injured by a fall over a defective board on Fruitvale avenue and asked compensation. The matter was referred to the city attorney.

THIEF LEAVES $5 TO VICTIM FOR BREAKFAST

At least the thief who stole Robert H. Kelton's money, according to Kelton's contention, was considerate in this degree, the report to the Oakland police disclosed today.

He left Kelton $5 with which to "eat breakfast," Kelton said. Kelton found under his pillow where the thief had laid.

Kelton, an inmate of Quincey, Cal., to Oakland, went to bed last night at that town in a Pullman car bound for this city. Carefully he put his wallet with $110 in it under his pillow. When he awoke this morning he found the wallet with $5 in the wallet. There was a note, in scrawly writing, which read:

"I've left you $5 to eat on."

Follow their letters in The OAKLAND TRIBUNE

DEAR JOE: Did I tell you my Cousin Grace was back from her honeymoon? Well, she is. She asked me if I thought she looked married yet. Can you imagine that, Joe? Thought to tell the truth my Cousin Grace even as a girl had a sort of married look, though I suppose it was natural enough when you stop to reflect that she had scarlet fever twice, or at least once and a relapse, and was operated on for appendicitis before she was twelve.

They've got a nice little two-story house with three rooms downstairs and three up, making a perfect balance. I asked Grace when she was going to get the rest of her furniture in, and she looked real sad and said the house was furnished in the Colonial period and that was all the furniture went with that period. You could of knocked me down with a feather pillow, Joe! But with my usual tact I excavated myself from the predicament.

"Oh, Grace," I says, "I didn't mean to cast the inference that I think you haven't got enough furniture." I says, "because personally," I says, "I adore this bare effect. It's so out-of-doors." I says, "How's that for lifting the spur of the moment by both horns, Joe? Anyway, as Mrs. Fink remarked, if that's the way they lived up their houses in Colonial times, wonder the Indians showed a tendency to stay out in the woods to be shot at sooner than drop in for a social chat."

I particularly asked to see Grace's dining room, Joe, because I wanted to find out if she had put our pickle dish in a deserving place. Well, Joe, would you believe me, it wasn't nowhere in sight! Nowhere! I respected from the very first, when I found it buried under the other presents at Grace's wedding, that she didn't appreciate that pickle dish, and now I'm sure of it. I've got a good mind to go there for supper some time and bring a jar of pickles with me and literally force her pointblank in that way to display our present at last once.

The baby looked as if he was thinking about this morning. Kind of laughing in a foolish sort of way with a faraway look.

Love, TESSIE.

Cry on Geraldine's Shoulder

Says he to me, not knowing who I was: "Never read that Geraldine stuff in The TRIBUNE?"

"Wonder why they call him 'Geraldine'?" I suppose he's some grouch old bird with whiskers?"

"I don't think so," says I. "And any way, those letters people write aren't aren't they?"

"Letters?" Oh pooh! he laughed condescendingly. "Don't you know that all that stuff is bought by the yard somewhere. Those aren't regular letters. You can't feel 'em!"

So I'm going to answer him here. Someone has fooled him badly and that someone is himself. Those letters DON'T come by the yard. They're as real as Geraldine is herself. They're the hearts talk straight from the people's hearts to her, and her answers are straight back from her heart to them.

Yes, I'm a Live Human

Folks, I want you to know. This isn't a "feature"—it isn't "news." It's a corner in life—YOUR CORNER. I want you to read in the REAL THING. The person who wrote it lives somewhere around, perhaps on your street. Those letters are the greatest literature that any man could write or read; they are the voices of actual people. And the one who answers them, too. She walks your streets and eats in your restaurants. They're CHEATERS. Every night she gives you a heart does like to eat! She gets out of bed "on the wrong side" about six days of the week, and on the seventh she doesn't get out at all unless she's forced to by some other American. She doesn't know much about a lot of things, but she's one hundred per cent efficient in one thing—SHE KNOWS HOW TO LOVE. Every night she gives you a heart hand clasp for you. So won't you answer some of the questions? She'd be glad to hear from you. Be honest to goodness, she won't. How do I know? Because I'm Geraldine.

Some Beauty Questions

Dear Geraldine—

I have a great deal of hair but I can't put it up in any way that's stylish and get a lot on. Can you suggest a style? How can I remove blackheads in my nose? How have very heavy eyebrows? Do you think if I pull out the hairs out with tweezers they would come in again?

A HOPEFUL 16-YEAR-OLD.

You're lucky to have such fine hair, little chum. There are several effective styles. Braid it in two braids and wrap it around your head. Part it in the middle and divide it at the top, and arrange in a simply folded "cap" effect. Or tie at the back of neck, after parting either on side or in the center. Then divide it in two parts and wrap around the head as you would if it were braided. Cover with a net and use a barrette in back to cover the tying. Simple big hairpins are very effective on the sides with this style.

For the blackheads, steam your face, then work in a lather of good soap. After this, rinse several times in warm water, and finish with a few applications of the coldest water—ice if possible. If you continue this regularly the blackheads will vanish.

I'm afraid those eyebrows will come in again, even if pulled out. Unless they're very conspicuous I wouldn't worry over them. If very heavy you can, of course, keep them out.

A Message in the Night

The strangest thing has happened. I am a German girl of 14. During the thirty years war my great-grandfather had a title Count Von—. This title was dropped. The other night when all were asleep a strange woman came and tapped at my window and said, "Don't be afraid—you shall receive the title that your forefather lost so long ago." Then she left. I was dazed. How did she know I was a direct descendant by right? I am always wondering about it.

PERPLEXED.

I wouldn't worry if I were you little sister. It may have been a joke and at any rate it will not matter greatly about the title. Titles are empty things now. But you may be a descendant of a noble heart, kindness, honesty, modesty, true pride, not title pride—these are countless qualities and you may have them today if you wish. So forget about that woman and just be YOU.

In Hunger of Love

Dear Geraldine—

Won't you cheer me up a bit? I am 20 years old and my husband is 36. We have been married just six months. He provides all the things I can wish for except the one thing I want more than all the rest. He never caresses me and tells me those nice things a girl wants to hear. He is so affectionate for a while and now he isn't. When I mention it to him he always says I want to be petted. Do you think I expect too much of him? I am so lonely. Tell me what to do, please.

A LONESOME WIFE.

Dear little bride-girl, I do wish I could send you Jerry's shoulder by parcel post to wrap you up. But since I can't here's a great bundle of love wrapped up in printer's ink. I use this message to cheer you up. Just petting—isn't that right? You feel that you need it, just as you need air and water, don't you? Well, let me tell you some strange things about water. Sometimes it seeps in with the splendor and fury of the storm, and it covers the earth with its might. Sometimes it dances along in brooks, chatting and singing, doing its work in a merry way. But sometimes it sinks entirely from sight. Deep into the

Former Sergeant Beats Off Robbers

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—John Holland, until recently a first sergeant in the army, so well exemplified the courage and fighting ability of the American soldier that he successfully battled with three holdup men near Fourth and Mission streets early today and saved a large sum of money in his possession.

Holland is a guest at the Argonaut Hotel. As he was about to enter the hotel this morning he was accosted by a stranger who told Holland that the latter would accompany him a short distance he could obtain several drinks.

Holland and his companion had not gone very far when a large automobile drove up and two men sprang out.

At the same instant Holland's companion grappled with him, in the meantime being joined by the other two men. Holland put up a vigorous battle and was giving a good account of himself when another automobile containing two men and two women arrived upon the scene. The two men went to Holland's rescue and drove off his assailants. At the Central Emergency Hospital Holland was treated for severe bruises about the face and head.

Letters of Tessie Joe.

Joe is a traveling salesman. Tessie is his loving wife. Follow their letters in The OAKLAND TRIBUNE

DEAR JOE: Did I tell you my Cousin Grace was back from her honeymoon? Well, she is. She asked me if I thought she looked married yet. Can you imagine that, Joe? Thought to tell the truth my Cousin Grace even as a girl had a sort of married look, though I suppose it was natural enough when you stop to reflect that she had scarlet fever twice, or at least once and a relapse, and was operated on for appendicitis before she was twelve.

They've got a nice little two-story house with three rooms downstairs and three up, making a perfect balance. I asked Grace when she was going to get the rest of her furniture in, and she looked real sad and said the house was furnished in the Colonial period and that was all the furniture went with that period. You could of knocked me down with a feather pillow, Joe! But with my usual tact I excavated myself from the predicament.

"Oh, Grace," I says, "I didn't mean to cast the inference that I think you haven't got enough furniture." I says, "because personally," I says, "I adore this bare effect. It's so out-of-doors." I says, "How's that for lifting the spur of the moment by both horns, Joe? Anyway, as Mrs. Fink remarked, if that's the way they lived up their houses in Colonial times, wonder the Indians showed a tendency to stay out in the woods to be shot at sooner than drop in for a social chat."

I particularly asked to see Grace's dining room, Joe, because I wanted to find out if she had put our pickle dish in a deserving place. Well, Joe, would you believe me, it wasn't nowhere in sight! Nowhere! I respected from the very first, when I found it buried under the other presents at Grace's wedding, that she didn't appreciate that pickle dish, and now I'm sure of it. I've got a good mind to go there for supper some time and bring a jar of pickles with me and literally force her pointblank in that way to display our present at last once.

The baby looked as if he was thinking about this morning. Kind of laughing in a foolish sort of way with a faraway look.

Love, TESSIE.

News of the Churches

Many of the churches of the East-bay region have already initiated courses in religious instruction, designed not only to train teachers for the Sunday school classes, but also to provide for the dissemination of religious thought and ideals throughout the community.

In this connection the First M. E. church commences this evening a six-week course of study on "The Church and the Community." The class will meet in the church every Wednesday evening at 7:30. As it is expected that a large number of persons will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend this course, the church has decided to make special arrangements for the evening sessions. The Men's, Young People's and Mixed Chorus will sing at the evening sessions.

The Men's class will be led by Carlos G. White and P. N. Kornblith. The Young People's class will be directed by Harry Holmbeck. A. B. Staples and M. C. Phillips, while the mixed class will be under the personal supervision of Rev. John D. Stephens, pastor of the church.

Following the hour of instruction the three classes will meet together and enjoy a brief fellowship meeting.

How a "flapper" looks to a woman of ninety

A woman of ninety, who has seen four generations of flappers, encounters the irrepressible young woman of 1920!

In Mrs. Harland's youth, the properly brought up young woman blushed—today it would take a hardy blush to penetrate the "complexion" that is so universally worn. Then it was genteel to faint—now it is sporting to face anything with a nonchalance of a receiving teller.

Off they rush in their too short skirts and their too low waists dabbling on their complexions as they go. "Self-expression" leads them to strange extremes but this young woman of ninety finds it in her heart to love and understand them.

She tells why in the November Pictorial Review.

A group of unusual short stories

Here are six real stories—six stones! Every one of them vivid, unusual—the type of short story you have come to expect in Pictorial Review

A story of suppressed desires. Read "Lucy Moon" by Hugh Walpole.

A story of the circus. Read "The Simp" by Courtney Ryley Cooper.

A sparkling tale of adventure. Read "A King of Paris" by H. Collinson Owen.

A story of overwhelming passions. Read "Second Hand" by G. Ranger Wormser.

A rollicking yarn of the sea. Read "A Whale-of a Story" by Richard Matthews Hallet.

The story of a striker's wife. Read "Paying the Piper" by Charles Caldwell Dobie.

A mystery story of New York society by Kathleen Norris

SOBBING, broken, the grand old lady begged her children not to question her—just to accept the girl.

Accept this pretty little nobody from a book store counter—they, one of the proudest, one of the wealthiest of all New York's old families!

Take her from the shop, from the obscure apartment where she lived with their old servant—into the envied citadel of their exquisitely formal lives!

What would people say? What would they think?

Was that hushed family scandal lifting its head again? Unbelievable, intolerable—its price had been paid years ago!

Kathleen Norris takes you into the life of New York's Four Hundred. Brilliant, intimate, powerfully written, it is a revealing portrait of the young society girl of today—the sober world of work—and through it all that baffling entangling question—to whom did the girl belong?

Two women knew—and would not speak. Two men rushed blindly on, loving her—the cultured sensitive gentlemen and the earnest young mechanic. Where could she find happiness, this girl with the conflicting blood of two worlds in her veins?

"THE BELOVED WOMAN"

by Kathleen Norris

Begins in this issue

Was John Cummings justified in leaving his wife?

She was a good woman. She was kind to her children. And she was a perfect housekeeper. Even had handstitched hems on all her curtains. Kept her home spick and span. And yet John went. Why did he go away with that other woman? Just what made him desert his wife? John said she was such a good housekeeper she didn't know how to make a home. He wanted companionship.

But he had to go out to get it.

Now before you get mad with John read what Montanye Perry says about him. Mrs. Perry has been keeping tabs on the neighbors in her own town, and she isn't quite sure that John wasn't halfway right.

There's an awful jolt for a lot of "good" wives in her article in Pictorial Review for November entitled "When is a wife not a wife?"

Do you know where the waist-line will be this winter?

Do you know the proper width for skirts?

The November Pictorial Review contains the forecast of Winter fashions. The newest and most charming styles are shown, with descriptions of the favored fabrics and valuable little hints concerning trimming and accessories.

This is to be a season of straight lines and gay embroideries. The moyen-age dress, with its simple lines and long waist-line promises to hold the first place in the popular favor.

One of the most noticeable features of the new styles is the lavish use of vivid, "peasant" embroideries, charming designs that enliven the simplest frock.

There is a Pictorial Review pattern to reproduce exactly all the styles you like best.

DEMOCRATIC WASTE TOLD BY SENATOR HARDING

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

JACKSON, O., Oct. 20.—Speaking this afternoon to a great gathering of people at an old-fashioned luncheon, Senator Warren G. Harding charged the Democratic administration with "gross inefficiency" and "prodigious waste" in the conduct of the nation's affairs.

Senator Harding said that the Democratic administration had "paid dearly" for the administration's mistakes.

The audience which Senator Harding found here was one of the largest he has faced in the past. From all over Southern Ohio and parts in Indiana and Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania people came here today by special train and motor to attend the luncheon.

50,000 CROWD
Preliminary estimates of the crowd ran as high as 50,000. To feed this great throng, five beefs were butchered and cooked in the open air.

Senator Harding arrived at noon on a special train. After lunching on barbecue beef and burgoo, he made a short speech. Representative "Nick" Longworth and Frank E. Willis, candidate for Senator Harding's seat in the Senate, also spoke.

Many of those attending were from the iron and steel regions of southern Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, and the Senator's address dealt principally with that industry.

BETTER LIVING URGED
"I would like," said the Senator, "to see the standards of living among foreign nations raised up to our standards. I should like to see them prosper as we have been prosperous, but I do not intend to see our prosperity and our standards of living in the iron and steel industry lowered to meet the competition of foreign countries in our markets."

"We stand for a proper policy of American protection, flexible adjustment to our standards, fair to our consumers and yet protecting American investments and the standard of living of those American laborers who do their part by giving us the efficiency in their productive effort. The truth of the matter is that with all the progressive tongues and all the literary idealism of our opponents it is still the Republican party, not only as to tariff protection, but as to every other kind of protection, which stands as the safeguard of America."

ACTION, NOT WORDS
"It is a simple matter to make phrases; it is more difficult to perform but it is on their respective records as phrase makers and performers that the Democratic forces of this campaign and the Republican party oppose each other."

"I do not wonder that the present administration and those whom it has chosen as its successors are trying to divert the attention of the country from the neglect, the prodigious waste and the grotesque inefficiency for which they have made us all pay so dearly."

Senator Harding was scheduled to speak at Buffalo tomorrow.

When You Feel Out of Sorts and See Things With a Dull Eye
LOOK TO YOUR BLOOD

Pale Complexions, Languid Feelings, Lowered Vitality, Need More Red Blood. Take Pepto-Mangan.

So many people spend week after week feeling down and out. They never stop to think that something really is the matter. They satisfy themselves by saying, "Oh, I'm not sick. I'll be all right tomorrow."

But tomorrow comes, and again, still they feel depressed and languid, scarcely able to get around. If you don't feel like yourself, you are not yourself. If you are weak and pale, your blood needs strengthening. You should know about Pepto-Mangan, that famous blood tonic. Physicians recommend it and prescribe it because it contains the ingredients needed to make red blood. It renews your energy, puts you where you ought to be. Begin with it today. Get the tablets if they will be more convenient to take. The liquid form has the same medicinal properties. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for "Gude's" and be sure that the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package. Advertisement.

Peace Pact Was Wrecked by President Wilson, Says Root

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—President Wilson is responsible for the failure of America to become a member of the League of Nations, Elihu Root said in an address last night.

"President Wilson would give nothing," said Root. "He insisted upon the treaty absolutely unchanged."

Root declared that "we shall promote the peace of the world" by electing Senator Harding, Republican candidate for President, whose stand on the league, he said, was unchanged from the time he voted for ratification of the peace treaty and reservation of the League of Nations with the Senate.

Root said that the Democratic administration had "paid dearly" for the administration's mistakes.

FULL COX RECORD ON LABOR LAWS IS ASKED HERE

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—American exportation of wheat will cease within ten years unless the farmer can increase the productivity of his soil, Herbert Hoover said today at a hearing before the international joint commission advising the proposed deep-sea waterways from the Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence River.

Hoover said the proposed waterway would mean a saving of at least 10 cents a bushel on export wheat and that this saving would go into the pockets of the American farmer and result in greater production. The former food and agriculture minister opposed the waterway as similar to opposition to labor-saving machinery.

Arguments in favor of the waterway were made by William C. Redfield, former secretary of commerce, and Julius H. Barnes.

Teacher Appointed
By Berkeley Board
BERKELEY, Oct. 20.—One teacher was appointed and leaves of absence extended to two others at yesterday's meeting of the board of education. Miss Margaret Lobb was named to the faculty of the Whittier school, while Miss Mary E. Rowden, Edison school, and Miss Ruth C. Woods, high school Spanish department, were granted leaves until January 1.

NO REPLY RECEIVED
Scharrenberg informed Congressman Nolan that his letter to Governor Cox had been mailed on September 23, but that up to the present time no explanation had come from Governor Cox.

A careful check of the ten test votes listed by labor on a check on the congressional records of the members of the Sixty-second Congress shows that Governor Cox, then a congressman, voted favorably on roll call on the other eight measures.

The record shows that on May 23, 1911—Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico providing mandatory enactment of the initiative, referendum and recall. Not voting.

May 13, 1912—Popular election of United States senators. Not voting.

May 14, 1912—Clayton Injunction Limitation bill, rule to consider. Not voting.

May 14, 1912—Final passage Clayton Injunction Limitation bill. Not voting.

July 8, 1912—Rule to consider Clayton bill to regulate court procedure in contempt cases. Not voting.

July 11, 1912—Clayton contempt bill, final passage. Not voting.

December 17, 1912—Literacy test in immigration restriction bill. Not voting.

February 19, 1913—Immigration restriction bill over President's veto. Favorable.

March 1, 1913—Workmen's compensation. Favorable.

March 4, 1913—Sundry civil over President's veto because it contained exemption of labor from prosecution under anti-trust act. Not voting.

NOLAN HEARD FROM
Congressman Nolan said yesterday:

"I feel that the workers of the country should be made acquainted with the fact that Mr. Cox either dodged the roll call on these important measures or that he wasn't sufficiently interested in matters relating to labor to be present when this important legislation was up in the House for consideration. I cannot understand why President Gompers has not replied to Paul Scharrenberg's letter of inquiry, nor why President Gompers did not include Cox's complete congressional record in the September issue of the American Federationist."

Speakers to Discuss
Proposed Laws
Amendments to be voted on at the election November 2 will be discussed at the mid-week meeting of Plymouth Congregational church, 2100 Broadway, at 8 o'clock tonight by speakers who have investigated the measures. After five-minute talks by the speakers the audience will be permitted to enter the discussion or to ask questions.

Miss Frances E. Wilson, deputy district attorney, will speak on the community property bill. Other speakers will talk on the Harris bill, which is the measure to provide for prohibition enforcement, the civil service act, the University of California relief amendment, the act to provide for children of tubercular and otherwise incapacitated parents and other measures.

Athletic Goods Theft
Charged to Woman
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—The discovery of a batch of stolen athletic goods valued at $2500 at the Hotel Alma, 335 Stockton street, by police last night has led to the arrest of Miss Roberta Marshall, 26, former assistant manager of the local store of A. G. Spaulding & Co. Miss Marshall was booked at the city prison on two charges of grand larceny. She has not worked for the firm since last January when she resigned without giving a reason for leaving.

The East Oakland Harding-Coolidge Shortridge Club held its 20th annual meeting at the home of Mrs. J. H. Steward, Tuesday night. Chairman of the Campaign Committee J. C. Holland spoke on the attempt of the Democrats to break up party lines in the interest of the opponent of Samuel M. Shortridge for the United States Senate. Mrs. A. W. Swent presided.

A meeting of the National Negro Political League was held last night at Community House in West Oakland. John T. Fowler, candidate for the Assembly, and E. T. Marshall made strong talks for the Republican ticket.

The passage of Amendment 12 is necessary to meet the educational crisis which now faces the State of California, declared Professor Bruce L. Clark of the university faculty in a talk on Amendment 12 before the League of East Oakland yesterday.

"The fact is that the university has not been able to meet the increasing needs during the last few years," said Professor Clark. "Not only has it not had enough money to adequately house the different departments, but it has not had enough to hire the teachers needed, and moreover, on account of the low salaries it has been unable to keep many of its best men."

"The question which is now before the State is, do the people of California wish to have a first-class institution, one that is capable of doing what is expected of it, or do they going to allow the university to struggle along in its present crippled condition and to fall back and be included with the weak or second third grade institutions of the country?"

HUERTA PLANNING MANY ECONOMIES

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Oct. 20.—Ways of paying Mexico's national debt are being laboriously worked out by President Adolfo de la Huerta and his cabinet. It has been decided that the first step necessary to re-establish Mexico's credit abroad is to carry out economies which will conserve the world of Mexico's serious determination to meet its obligations.

The decision to retire 30,000 soldiers now enlisted in the regular army is only one of numerous economies decided upon by President de la Huerta, but it is the most daring one, when it is remembered that the revolution is only a few months old and that the defeated faction is still actively conspiring.

The plan is to put the 30,000 soldiers on half pay for the present, in the expectation that most of them, if not all of them, will soon find regular civilian work and cease to draw the half pay.

Economies are being practiced in every governmental department. It is said the government's efforts to add to its revenues from the oil fields is solely for the purpose of increasing the fund to be used in paying the national debt. The unpaid interest alone is $122,609,667.11, making the total debt $546,249,468.88.

Californians, Do You

Still Love Your Liberty?

The State Prohibition Act (commonly referred to as the Harris Bill) will appear upon the November election ballot as Proposition Number 2.

It applies only to California and is perhaps the most drastic enforcement law that has been proposed in the United States.

If enacted it means that California will be absolutely, positively and forever a prohibition State.

The Volstead Act may be amended to permit the use of light wines and beers in other States in the Union.

California could not and would not enjoy this right if proposition Number 2 carries.

If the State Prohibition Enforcement Act becomes a law light wines and beers and personal liberty are gone forever in California.

100,000 Died From Bright's Disease and Other Kidney Troubles During the Past Year

Insurance Company Official says that "60% of these Deaths Could Have Been Avoided."

The increase in fatalities from Bright's Disease and other kidney ailments is causing grave concern to health authorities. A leading Life Insurance Co. states that 60% of the fatalities could have been avoided or postponed had the proper precautionary measures been taken.

Thousands of people who have kidney trouble do not know it. They do not realize the important part the kidneys play in our daily life. If the kidneys are not working properly, good health is impossible, as the poisons created daily are retained in the system, which cause backaches, constipation and many other distressing ills.

So to avert serious kidney illness, Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy invariably helps these internal organs to get back to normal action. Its healing and soothing action on the kidneys aids them to do the work of elimination of poisons from the system. That is why Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy has helped thousands of sufferers from backache, weak kidneys, bladder troubles, and why it is so uniformly successful.

Then remember, Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy is no experiment of today, but a most dependable medicine for the kidneys that has been a blessing to thousands of sufferers for the last 40 years. To learn the full story of this remarkable sample will be mailed upon receipt of ten cents to cover postage if you write Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 253, Rochester, N. Y.—Advertisement.

DR. HUDSON STUCK.

In the death of Archdeacon Hudson Stuck the Indians of Alaska lost a friend and the North one of its most forceful and picturesque figures. To the general public he was known best, perhaps, as the man who climbed Mt. McKinley and proved that Doctor Cook did not make the complete ascent of that highest American peak. He wrote fascinating stories of interior Alaska, its scenery, the Eskimos, the Indians and its white settlements, and on his occasional lecture appearances in the States he won a wide admiration for the fearless manner with which he attacked all forms of sham.

To this man who fought liquor peddling, gambling and the wildest license in a territory of more than 1500 miles and where there were but six representatives of the law, the "trained sociologist" and "psychological pedagogue" were experts to be dreaded. He believed the best tools of his profession were the natural ones of faith, patience and work, and expressed his fears of laboratories, card indexes, statistics and curve plottings in humorous and pointed manner.

"These men," he said, "are always in danger of evacuating the human personal element out of their work and thinking of men and women in algebraic formulae." Because he denounced those tourists who found fault with the Alaskans because of their dirt he was himself held up in some attempts at ridicule as a defender of grime.

He would rather be human and dirty than inhuman and clean," was his reply, and he kept on looking through the dirt to find the soul.

No man did more to fight diphtheria, tuberculosis, and smallpox in the North, and no man did more to bring about order in a country where laws were regarded merely as something which filled books in distant places.

Dr. Stuck was a man who has adorned fittingly and with honor the speaker's platform at Columbia University. He could have filled the pulpit of one of the largest of the New York churches had he given his consent.

Instead he buried himself in the far North and gave his life to a fight for the native Alaskans. The rough frontier that attracted this heroic man will not soon forget him.

THE DOG AND THE DUCKS.

Because one airedale dog has figured out a short cut from Lakeside Park to Piedmont danger is threatened to the city's prized possession, its flock of wild fowl. The dog has not been content, park officials complain, with using that path favored by automobiles and marathons but has pushed off from the boat-house on his daily swim across the lake. Some sort of action, say the park officials, will have to be taken.

One suggestion is that the whole matter be referred to the board of education on the theory that any flock of ducks that can master the statistics of the opening and closing of the game seasons should be readily instructible regarding the intentions and purposes of this dog. It has been suggested that if a decoy is fastened to the airedale's head he will be able to make the journey without attracting any startled attention and the question comes up as to whether the city of Oakland, the city of Piedmont or the owner of the dog must bear the expense. The park officials have taken the matter up with the playgrounds department, and the playgrounds department may carry the appeal to the board of public works. Piedmont stands uncommitted.

Behind the whole distressing situation is the simple fact that the dog, like most children, is too smart, and it is not proposed that any smart airedale shall disturb our congregation of equally gifted ducks. If anyone has a plan for an amicable adjustment, a conference of the interested parties, or a scheme of arbitration, he is entreated to make it known.

Otherwise there seems to be no solution but a municipal ferry for the use of the dog—or else to see that he is kept tied up in his own backyard.

The American consul at Madeira, in a consular report, embodies a long and what the Boston Transcript calls, an "appetizing" account of the Madeira wine production for 1920. We are exuberantly told that the production will amount to more than 10,000 pipes of 500 liters each, or 1,320,000 gallons, and that the quality is very good. All of which is decidedly like the flowers that bloom in the spring. The consul must be unaware of Amendment No. 18, or forgetful, or something.

AID THE UNIVERSITY.

On November 2 the people of California will be asked to express their judgment on a proposal—No. 12 on the ballot—to add a new section to the constitution which would levy an annual ad valorem tax for the exclusive benefit of the State University of twelve cents on each $100 of property taxable for general county purposes. The proceeds from this tax would, it is estimated, amount to approximately $4,500,000 for the first year of the levy and increase by six or seven per cent each year thereafter, through the normal increase in the assessment.

This fund would be known as the "State University Fund" and would be subject to draft by the university regents for any disposal the regents might wish to make for university purposes. All money collected under this tax is appropriated in advance to the State university without reference to fiscal years or submission of a budget of expenses. The new act would be a substitute for all existing methods of raising and distributing university funds.

In considering this question two features have outstanding importance. One is the need of the university for larger appropriations than it has received in the past, due to the increased demands of a larger student body; the other is the principles and precedents of government which would be involved.

As to the first phase of the question, it is not open to intelligent controversy. The university is at present in hard financial straits. Since the last legislative appropriation was made two years ago the enrollment has greatly increased and the employment of more instructors and increases in the salaries of all the teaching staff, new and old, have become necessary. More housing accommodations for the student body has become an imperative need. These are requirements which cannot be evaded or postponed unless the State university is to be a sadly crippled, inadequate and inefficient institution.

Unfortunately the device proposed in the initiative amendment involves some very seriously vital principles of government, which is the second feature referred to above. The amendment would take from the legislature the control of university appropriations. It must be conceded that there would be set up in fact a government board superior to the people, collecting an ad valorem tax and spending the proceeds without other responsibility to the people than merely to report the result. On the other hand, it has been pointed out that legislators make frequent demands upon the regents, in many instances sectional, which requests, as a matter of policy, cannot always be entirely ignored.

Next to the objections of taking this power from the legislature and the people the argument is advanced that there is the danger of placing it with a government board not directly responsible or accountable to the people. As at present constituted the board of regents of the university provokes no fear that the funds sought by the proposed tax would be unwisely or illegally expended. The regents are without exception high types of citizens and entirely trustworthy. But it is recognized that boards change; political administrations change. There is of course a possibility that there may come an unfortunate time when the appointment of regents would not be so carefully and honestly exercised as in the past several years and incompetent and untrustworthy men might attain places on the board of regents. California has been fortunate in this regard and there is not likely to be less care exercised in the future. The question of precedent is also one not to be overlooked.

Notwithstanding the objections urged it must be conceded that the university occupies a position different from other state institutions. As President Barrows has well stated: "The university has for many years occupied a special position by provisions of the State Constitution. It is not a normal part of the State administration. It is a great trust, to which the Federal government and private generosity bountifully contribute." Fourteen other States have adopted the method of providing adequate revenues for their State universities. The proposed amendment is therefore not an experiment, having worked most satisfactorily elsewhere.

No Californian wants the university to fail in the purposes for which it is designed. No one desires that any reluctance be shown in allowing the university all the money needed for its efficient operation on a scale which will meet all the demands of the young men and women of California for higher education.

The Tribune feels a particular concern for the welfare of the university. The State university is in Alameda county and makes this field a metropolitan center of culture, and as the indisputably leading newspaper in the Eastbay district, THE TRIBUNE feels under a special obligation to do whatever is needful and consistent with the interest of the whole State to advance the university's interest. The money necessary to meet the university's enlarged demands must be forthcoming.

THE TRIBUNE urges its readers to support proposal No. 12.

NOTES and COMMENT

A new ordinance to regulate downtown traffic, meaning traffic in the heart of the city, is promised. Certainly, if there is any way of reducing the congestion it should be adopted. If it were possible to restrain purposeless automobiles, that would help. It seems as though every owner of a machine runs it into the heart of the city at the busiest time, whether on a necessary errand or not.

It is not surprising that a drugist firm should seek to make capital out of the next president's predilection in medicine. Such things are subject to the charge of being un-American. In this country a man may take whatever kind of physic he prefers, and follow whichever road to salvation he may choose, and still be entitled to a status as a good citizen and neighbor.

The famous slogan, "Look for the woman in the case," is alleged to apply to the California baseball crookedness. It was supposed this was a purely masculine delinquency, but a woman now somewhat mysteriously figures. That may help account for it.

Responsibility for Creel in Mexico has been denied from the White House. Before the denial appeared the statement was made that he had failed in his "mission." It seems to have been one of those loose movements so characteristic of this administration's Mexican policy.

Notwithstanding the "crime in sugar," which took millions from ultimate consumers, which was supposed to have insured to the profit of the countries which produce sugar, Cuba is said to be near a financial panic. The explanation may be that the profits of the crime were not realized by the producers. It has been charged that American profiteers were behind the gigantic deal.

First Senator Johnson is to campaign through the East, and then Francis Heney is to follow him, and it looks as if the forecaster man would be justified in predicting warm weather.—Sacramento Union.

The Antioch Tribune supplies an elucidation: "The town man thinks all a farmer does is to sit in the shade and watch things grow. A farmer thinks all they do in town is to sit behind a counter and rake in the money. This is the reason every farmer wants to move to town and every town man wants to be a farmer."

The League to Enforce Peace, of which William H. Taft is president, is being questioned as to the loyalty of some of its acts. Somebody may have been a little too hasty in their former president if there is anything in the charges. Nobody believes he has knowingly stood for unlawful acts.

Secretary Palmer orders an investigation of the fifty-one burials that were turned loose when he and five other members of the cabinet were at the Democratic National Convention. The accounts seem to locate him so near the matter that it disturbs his equanimity. Nobody believes that he took part, but his immediate presence and possible knowledge may have reassured those who did take a part as to consequences.

Affairs in England have an ugly look. Lloyd George is represented to have laid the blame on an inexperienced president of the Board of Trade. There seems to be no experience somewhere, else such turmoil, considering the country's other troubles, would not have been permitted to come to a head just at this time.

Sage observation from the Richmond Record-Herald: "About the time we get to be old enough to know better we are so aged that it doesn't make any difference whether we know better or not."

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

The old Palmdale winery at Irwin, built in 1822, one of the most pretentious landmarks in the eastern end of Alameda county, has been torn down and its colossal timbers sold by a wrecking company. The structure, which was three stories, was built by Juan Gallegos, one of the Spanish pioneers. On such splendid lines did he plan the building that he sent representatives to Washington and Oregon to select the timbers, and it was claimed by the wreckers that they were the most perfect they had ever seen. When in operation prior to 1905 the winery had a capacity of about 200,000 gallons of wine a year.—Niles Register.

"Duster" Mails, who is winning such big ball honors, is a California production and is quite well known to many of our local fans, who naturally are taking great interest in his star performance. He was born at San Quentin (not in prison), his father being employed to the Mare Island navy yard. Young Mails frequently visited in Alameda county and played ball with the local teams of that county.—Calaveras Prospect.

Several hundred head of cattle from the Altamont section have been moved this week to Merced county, where they will be put to pasture for several months. Feed on the local ranges is in fair shape, with the amount up to the usual standard on the higher hills, but in the adobe soil of the lower foothills feed is scarce. The recent rains started the feed, and it continues during the next few weeks good feed is assured.—Livermore Herald.

HOW TO USE IDLE SHIPS.
 The time may probably come when the land is overcrowded and people begin to live on water. Then we shall be building floating skyscrapers and aquatic parks. At any rate, congenial Japanese have already launched a scheme, which in the opinion of the projectors will set a new bird with one stone. The scheme is the creation of what is called floating warehouses. During the war Japan built many god-sized wooden ships to aid in the transportation of the allies' goods. After the war these ships were dismissed from the service, and since then lay idle in harbors unable to obtain cargoes due to post-war slumps in shipping.

Taking advantage of this circumstance, a group of men organized a concern called the Marine Warehouse Company, with a capital of 10,000,000 yen; bought the wooden ships and started a floating warehouse business. The company is now engaged in establishing eight floating warehouses in the harbor of Kobe. The aquatic warehouses, being exempt from extortionate rent and taxes and largely free from the danger of fire, in addition to many peculiar advantages consequential to their movable character, will be able, it is claimed, to carry on the business at a much lower rate with greater facility, proving a formidable enemy, in the future, to their terrestrial cousins.—New York Commercial.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

How a Child Was Saved by An Unusual Operation

By Dr. LEONAR E. HIRSBERG
 A. B., M. D.,
 (Johns Hopkins University)

A flaxen-haired, 3-year-old girl from North Carolina was the patient recently in one of a series of unusual operations being carried on at Johns Hopkins Hospital. It involved the dilation of an esophagus completely closed up by the child drinking moistened lye. The operation was of a type which has been performed before at Hopkins, with success, but it is said to be unusually unheard of in most other hospitals.

The child drank the liquid many weeks ago and received treatment for a time from a physician in her native town. For days she lay hovering between life and death, but artificial feeding and intelligent treatment gradually restored her strength, in part.

A few weeks ago, however, it was discovered that her esophagus had assumed an "S" shape, due to portions being banded away and other portions forming protrusions due to new growth. A stricture began to form, and soon the child's inability to swallow threatened to become permanent.

The parents remembered the Johns Hopkins Hospital, and Phoebe was sent there.

It was discovered that there still was a tiny opening in the throat, through which the child could swallow a single drop of water at a time. A fine piece of surgical thread was placed in the throat, and by dint of patience and the swallowing of many drops of water, the end of it finally passed the stricture and entered the stomach. Then the "gastrostomy" or opening in the stomach through which artificial feeding had been carried on for weeks—was utilized by the surgeon in securing the end of the thread. A heavier piece of thread was attached to it and drawn upward. This operation was repeated several times with successively heavier diameters of silk cord, the throat orifice being slightly enlarged each time.

The slow process was all in anticipation of the true operation. The opening was found to be large enough for the insertion of the point of a small, cone-shaped instrument at the end of a long handle, by means of which dilations of the throat are made.

One Eloquent Word.
 An old negro brother, seated far back in a crowded experience meeting, stood up, gained the attention of the leader, and said:
 "Kin I say jes' one word?"
 "You can," said the leader, "Go ahead."
 "Then, with all his might, he shouted, 'Halleluia!'"—Atlanta Constitution.

COMMITTEE TO MAKE MAPS OF NAVY BASE SITE

Appointment of two committees to have charge of making maps of the presentation of the Alameda site to the congressional commission on naval bases was announced this morning by W. W. Chapin, chairman of the naval base committee of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

One of these committees, which will have charge of the preparation of maps and direct the gathering of technical data, consists of A. Andrew, Union Construction Company, chairman; J. J. McElroy, Rufus P. Jennings, Frank A. Leach, Jr. and Supervisor William J. Hamilton.

The other committee, to be in general charge of the arrangements for the entertainment of the congressional commission, consists of Joseph E. Kane, chairman; George A. Ames, H. C. Capwell, J. H. King and J. R. Knowland.

The committee on maps and data is expected to meet at luncheon next Friday and get down to active work. As its task is considered the most important of all it probably will be kept busy from now until the arrival of the congressional commission on November 26.

Preparation of a relief map showing the projected naval base on the Alameda site along the lines of the plans of the Helms commission was begun today by officials of the Chamber of Commerce. It is planned to have this map exhibited at the evening stand at the Alameda site so that every congressman will at once obtain an accurate idea of the extent of the free gift of Alameda to the United States.

Field glasses will be provided each member of the commission so that he can easily see the expanse of the site and its closeness to deep water, the site being outlined by decorated yachts.

Some Licenses Free For Ex-Service Men

Former service men may, with the written consent of the mayor and tax collector, obtain a free license to conduct certain businesses in Oakland, according to an opinion rendered by City Attorney Hagan.

The question arose concerning licenses for second-hand stores. The city usually charges $75 quarterly, but service men have held that they were exempt from payment, and the city attorney so ruled.

U. C. Paper Says Pretty Girls Have an Advantage in College

BERKELEY, Oct. 20.—Whether the eyebrow pencil and a peachy complexion are mightier than the fourty-five and a high forehead were questions which agitated the University of California today.

This followed publication of an editorial in the Daily Californian charging that pretty girls have an advantage over others in college life.

"The editorial is psychologically sound," declared Professor Warner Brown, of the department of psychology, today. "It is quite natural for an instructor to be influenced favorably by a pleasing appearance and personality."

Prof. Frank H. Probert, dean of the College of Mines, was inclined to qualify that view a little, although he admitted that a pretty girl can "camp" her way into the good graces to a certain extent, even of a college professor.

"While it is true that some of our men are susceptible to feminine charms," Probert said, "I do not think a woman can go very far in college on good looks alone."

As to the college girls themselves, they are hopelessly split into factions on the question. One faction, represented by Miss Minora Johnson, believes that a pretty girl has the advantage.

"Men are only human," commented Miss McCabe. "But I know of several cases of a man student winning the heart of a woman instructor."

Other factions may be considered as represented by Miss Gwyneth Gomer, campus actress. Miss Gomer thinks the Californian's editorial preposterous.

"The whole thing is silly," she declared, and her followers joined her in dismissing it as that.

BOOTHS CAN SELL SODA IN BOTTLES

Although several small restaurants and lunch booths near shipyards are being closed on the ground that they are insanitary, they still have the privilege of selling pop and soda in bottles, according to a ruling by the city attorney this morning in answer to questions from J. S. Sullivan, city food inspector. City Attorney Hagan holds that there is nothing to restrict them from selling articles other than food.

It is asserted, however, that an ordinance will soon be forthcoming relieving the congestion of peddlers' vehicles at the gates of the shipyards. The vehicles are alleged to obstruct the view of passing trains and thus may constitute a danger.

Burglar Routed By Woman With Hatpin

The bravery of Mrs. M. De Cosmo, 815 Forty-first street, routed a burglar who was about to enter her home when she returned from a downtown theater, according to police reports today.

As Mrs. De Cosmo approached her house she saw a man tampering with the lock on her front door. Instead of fleeing for help, Mrs. De Cosmo rushed up to the front porch and demanded to know what the intruder wanted.

He advanced menacingly. Mrs. De Cosmo screamed, but drew a hatpin from her hat and stepped forward to meet the stranger. He fled.

RECORD OF BOY SCOUTS IS CLEAR

Within a period of three months two hundred crimes have been committed in Oakland by boys between the ages of 12 and 17.

News clippings taken from the daily press, pasted onto a board by officers of the Oakland Boy Scouts, attest this fact. These offenses ranged from the theft of four automobiles daily to bank robbery and white slavery.

Another board kept by the executives to hold clippings of Boy Scout offenses remained clear. There has never been a Boy Scout in a court of law, prison, county jail or state prison anywhere in the United States that is known of.

To maintain this record and to make possible the continuance of the movement in Oakland, which will perish if funds are not forthcoming, manufacturers, business men and others are being asked to not a cent out of their payroll for weekly amounts of $5, $2 or $1.

Some response has been made to this three-year policy, providing for a growth of 180 per cent for education, work and for training the boys. Some work and for training the boys. Some work and for training the boys.

The annual camp dinner of the Boy Scouts will be held at Camp Shook this evening.

During school vacation this week the Scouts are staging special features in camp. Tomorrow one hundred Boy Scouts will rehearse their parts in the municipal pageant to take place the end of this month. Friday boys from south Oakland and the industrial district will be the guests of the Scouts in camp. Saturday the Scouts will be the guests of P. C. Durant, when he will "serve the beans" at his country estate on Foothill boulevard.

EXPERT OUTLINES NECESSITY FOR TRAFFIC RELIEF

Oakland's problem of traffic has become so acute that something must be done to relieve congestion and make for safety at once, Sergt. John Fahy, head of the traffic squad, told the Merchants' Exchange at its meeting last night.

The speaker, discussing various aspects of the traffic problem, pointed out the necessity for the State to establish a license office here and indicated that more traffic men were an imperative need.

In 1914 the city had eight traffic men and today there are only five traffic men and 41,000 automobiles.

Since the first of the year, fifty-five persons have been hurt, forty-one killed and 535 collisions with property loss have occurred in the city, he said.

MORE PARKING SPACE.
The parking congestion he told the merchants that in the Federal Realty building there were thirty-eight tenants with automobiles while about the building there was parking space for not more than twenty-two machines. This condition, he indicated, was duplicated at every building.

A count made by traffic men at Fourteenth and Broadway between the hours of 5 and 6 p. m. Sergeant Fahy said, has shown that an average of 3055 machines pass that corner in the sixty minutes, almost two machines a second in steady flood.

With such a tide of traffic, Fahy declared, his department could use twenty men and not have more than enough to do all the work that is to be done.

On the subject of state licenses, Fahy insisted that there should be an office here for the Eastbay. Fahy's office is now doing an average of $400 a month state license business without remuneration. Not less than 150 foreign car owners apply each week for registration, he said.

Amendment 12 Is Urged to Aid Extension Work

BERKELEY, Oct. 20.—Thousands of men and women in all sections of the state are benefited annually by university extension courses, according to a report issued by Leon J. Richardson, extension director.

Richardson, in a report to the state board of education, urged the passage of amendment 12 as a means of continuing and developing the extension work.

The report shows that 16,315 persons are registered in extension class and correspondence courses. In addition to that number 107,338 auditors attended lectures and recitals given by university extension during the year ending June 30, 1920, and 203,613 persons witnessed moving picture and stereoscopic entertainments provided through the extension department to churches, schools and clubs throughout the state.

By the first of last July there were students registered in correspondence courses from every county in the state. Lectures and recitals were given in 115 cities and towns of the state.

University extension according to Richardson, is one of the means by which the state can best afford to the people of the state for the support of the institution. Its purpose is to put the means of education at the disposal of every one.

University extension charges a fee for studies. Professor Richardson states, "that does not cover the expenses of the courses, the debt being made up out of university funds."

The passage of amendment 12, which will give the university an assured income yearly, is looked forward to by university extension officers as an opportunity for greater work for the establishing of more classes, for bringing more university extension to the people. The 16,315 university extension students and the other thousands who enjoyed lectures, concerts and entertainments made possible by university extension are the best boosters of the extension movement. It has been learned and are loyal extension alumni of the university."

SUIT BASED UPON WEDDING PLEDGE FOUR YEARS OLD

BERKELEY, Oct. 20.—When Maria M. Marburg, who was married on her wedding day as her wedding day came around, Mrs. Lenor D. Marburg, widow residing at Keith and Shasta avenues, says that all her income, Harvey G. Mead, San Francisco business man, said to her in the form of nuptial vows, was "Why should I marry you?"

That is what Mrs. Marburg alleges in a suit for $25,000 charging Mead with breach of promise as filed yesterday in San Francisco.

Early last month Mead, who is 47 years old, at that time living at the Mendocino apartments in San Francisco, secured a license to wed Miss Maria M. Marburg, 39-year-old daughter of 441 Ellis street, San Francisco.

In addition to the $25,000 Mead seeks, Mrs. Marburg seeks $2000 for room and board furnished Mead within the last four years. Pled against this court to Mead's credit Mrs. Marburg states is compensation for the loss of her income, some $1000 a month, which she has lost since the marriage, she states, however, is of "little value."

STRIPPE, SAYS SHE.
For four years Mead deceived her with promises of matrimony to such an extent that she furnished her room and board and prepared for the nuptial ceremony, says Mrs. Marburg.

This suit will be a surprise to him, says the plaintiff. "I don't want to hurt him in his business or personal affairs but I have made my plans for several years in accordance with his promises and all I demand now is justice."

Mrs. Marburg is represented by Attorney W. H. R. McMartin of San Francisco.

Aviator Escapes Blizzard, Learns of Father's Death

CHEYENNE, Wyoming, Oct. 20.—Less than an hour after reaching here in a dazed condition from 24 hours of exposure in a terrific blizzard following the collision of his mail airplane with a mountain, Pilot James P. Murray received word of the death of his father in Norwich, Conn. Murray left by rail today for the East to attend the funeral.

Murray, who was on an air mail trip from Salt Lake to Cheyenne, had been missing since Monday. He related a thrilling story of his escape from death when his mail ship collided with Snow mountain, 100 miles west of here, and only a mile from the spot where Lieutenant E. V. Wales met death under almost identical circumstances in the army trans-Atlantic race just a year ago.

Murray spent Monday night on top of Snow mountain in a howling blizzard. Cropping his way blindly through snow he finally reached human habitation after a 24-hour struggle. A cut forehead and discolored eyes were the only injuries he sustained. The machine was wrecked.

SCHOOL MAY LOSE ATHLETIC FIELD ON TAX POINT

BERKELEY, Oct. 20.—Unless the state of education pays the taxes on private property fronting the city hall now used as an athletic field for the high school, owners of the land will withdraw its use.

W. J. Mortimer, realty dealer, for the property owners, declared they thought it an injustice that they must give use of their land without compensation and pay the taxes as well. He declared that "spite" fences which would spoil the field, were threatened by one of the owners.

A previous request from G. S. Whitley, 2600 Vine street, asking the board to pay taxes on his land, was refused by the school heads. A conference will be called by the school officials with the heads of the physical education department at the high school to ascertain if the Bunnell tract, recently acquired for a new high school site, cannot be utilized for a playground tennis, possibly. The block fronting the city hall is now used for all outdoor physical education classes of the high school for both boys and girls.

NINE KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

LEASSED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 20.—Nine persons are known to have been killed and at least fifteen injured when a Chicago and Boston Limited on the New York Central railroad side swiped the Buffalo-Cleveland train west-bound at the west end of the Union station here today. Four of the bodies taken from the wreck are those of women.

The Chicago and Boston express ran through an open switch not far from the station and side swiped a train from Buffalo on its way west. A baby was killed. A woman was the seventh recovered from the wreck, a car and a few minutes later word was sent out from St. Vincent's hospital that two of the injured had died.
